

FACT SHEET: FEMALE OFFENDER TREATMENT PROGRAM

Program Overview

The Female Offender Treatment Program (FOTP) consists of community-based alcohol and drug treatment services for eligible parolees throughout the County. Funding is made possible by the California Department of Alcohol and Drug Programs.

The program provides residential and outpatient alcohol and drug treatment and recovery services to female parolees throughout the county. The FOTP program provides up to six months (180 days) of alcohol and drug treatment services to each participant.

Target population

Services are available for female parolees (including homeless parolees) from the California Institute for Women and also parolees referred from local parole field offices.

To be eligible for the program, parolees must have a history of substance abuse and must not have any violent offenses.

Goals of the program:

- Improves female parolee outcomes as evidenced by fewer drug-related revocations and related criminal violations.
- Supports the parolee's reintegration into society by encouraging a clean and sober lifestyle.
- Reduces State General Fund costs for incarceration and parole supervision.
